Shipping Cameron Hughes Wine

The shipping process began for Club 32 Today in San Francisco. For January, the two wines in this club (pictured above) are by Cameron Hughes Winery. Selected by Erin Fitzpatrick, these wines are sure to please. A few quotes about Cameron Hughes Winery to mark the occasion.

- “This is the rare bargain wine that could easily pass for a $30 master piece—which, in fact, is the price its makers originally planned to sell it for. The reason is its ever-evolving complexity, a quality rarely found this affordably.”
- San Francisco Chronicle
- “Don’t believe the anti-hype. Merlot is great, especially when it delivers well-balanced juicy plum and cherry flavors for a price like this.”
- Epicurious
- “The bottom line, of course, is whether these new negotiant names are a guarantee of quality and value. In other words, do most of their wines taste as though they cost more than their price tags? From what I’ve tasted so far, the answer is a resounding yes.”
- Bloomberg.com

Below, an audio conversation between Cameron Hughes and Tom Leykis. If you are interested in understanding more about the wine industry, pricing, and distribution - this is a great interview, 23 minutes in entirety. The short version is: Cameron Hughes Wine is a tremendous bargain. (Click on the play symbol to begin the interview).
