

COOKING WITH

recipes • restaurant reviews • demos • food shopping

THE SINGLE GUY

Friday, February 08, 2008
Friday Heart Nights

Eat My Blog

Cooking for yourself can be fun. Here I'll share my seasonal recipes that are sometimes quick, often simple and always an adventure. I'm based in the San Francisco Bay Area so I'll be posting restaurant reviews and local shopping discoveries, too. Enjoy!

Got feedback? Drop me a note at singleguychef@comcast.net

Here's a Ferry Building volunteer helping out pouring wine at the many wine tables. I tried the 2005 Zinfandel from Cameron Hughes Winery from the Dry Creek Valley area. It was fantastic. It was smooth, full-bodied and oh so delish. The guy explained to me that the winery isn't really a winery but some third-party who gets the grapes and cuts out the middle person and then gets the wine into the stores. Huh? I didn't really understand what he was saying; I think the wine was already having an effect on me. ;-) All I know is it was good and he said I could find it at Costco, of all places. This is a nice value Zinfandel.